- iv) Sayli hugged her younger brother _____

One day, I was coming down the school stairs. Somebody from the top gave a frantic scream. fell came tumbling down about seven steps. My elbows and knees were badly bruised. My new frock was torn at the seams. When I reached home. Mama shouted. "I am sick of you. When will you stop making me pay through my nose for such extravagant losses?"

Mother seized me by the arm, gave me a good jerk and seated me on the bed. She fetched an antiseptic lotion and applied it to my elbow and knees; but did not hug me. Within e lingered the yearning that she would hold me and console me! Even if she had given me just a sympathetic pat, my smarting limbs would have been soothed.

My younger brother was close by. As Mama walked away to the kitchen, he came and sat beside me. He placed his little hand on my arm and whispered, "Are you in great pain?" I hugged him tight started crying again.

And leaves to burn on Hallowe'en,
 And in the Spring new buds of green,
 They are the first when day's begun
 To touch the beams of morning sun
 They are the last to hold the light,
 When evening changes into night.
 And when a moon floats on the sky
 They hum a drowsy lullaby
 Of sleepy children long ago...
 Trees are the kindest things I know...
